Relax headquarters near Venice

Who we are

Relax, a company that produces shower enclosures, bathtubs, shower trays and bathroom furnishing accessories. A company that bases its foundations on the experience of a team of dynamic and qualified people.

It was 2003 when Dimitri Camolese and Adelino Conte met, starting a long history of successes. The commitment of the two entrepreneurs, combined with the professionalism of their young staff, decreed the success of a young company from the beginning. Relax with its Research & Development office constantly identifies new and specific solutions for high-tech shower enclosures 100% italian excellence.

Relax shower enclosures are born and evolve thanks to an unparalleled wealth of skills and knowledge: from the most extreme shaping of glass, to the quality of the processing of aluminum components.

We select the finest raw materials, from local suppliers, who like us wish to make Made in Italy known throughout the world.

This is the secret that Relax has kept for many years. A key factor to understand the quality of our products, made of continuous innovation and the awareness of always having the best raw materials and components.

Man and technology at the customer service.

The two fundamental components of a Relax product are glass and aluminum and represent its flexibility and resistance. But these materials in their raw state are only a starting point, a first step towards the quality of the final product. In fact, for each shower enclosure it is necessary to identify the aluminum and glass that guarantee the best performance. Relax develops precise material transformation technologies, constantly monitoring all production processes. The shower enclosure is followed and subjected to all sorts of tests. Quality control is the guarantor of the total quality of Relax products.

Certified quality

Safety and reliability are essential qualities for Relax, which is why we rely on the most important European certification institute to subject our shower enclosures to the most severe tests. TÜV SÜD certifications allow us to improve our products day after day, making them increasingly safe and durable.

Care for details

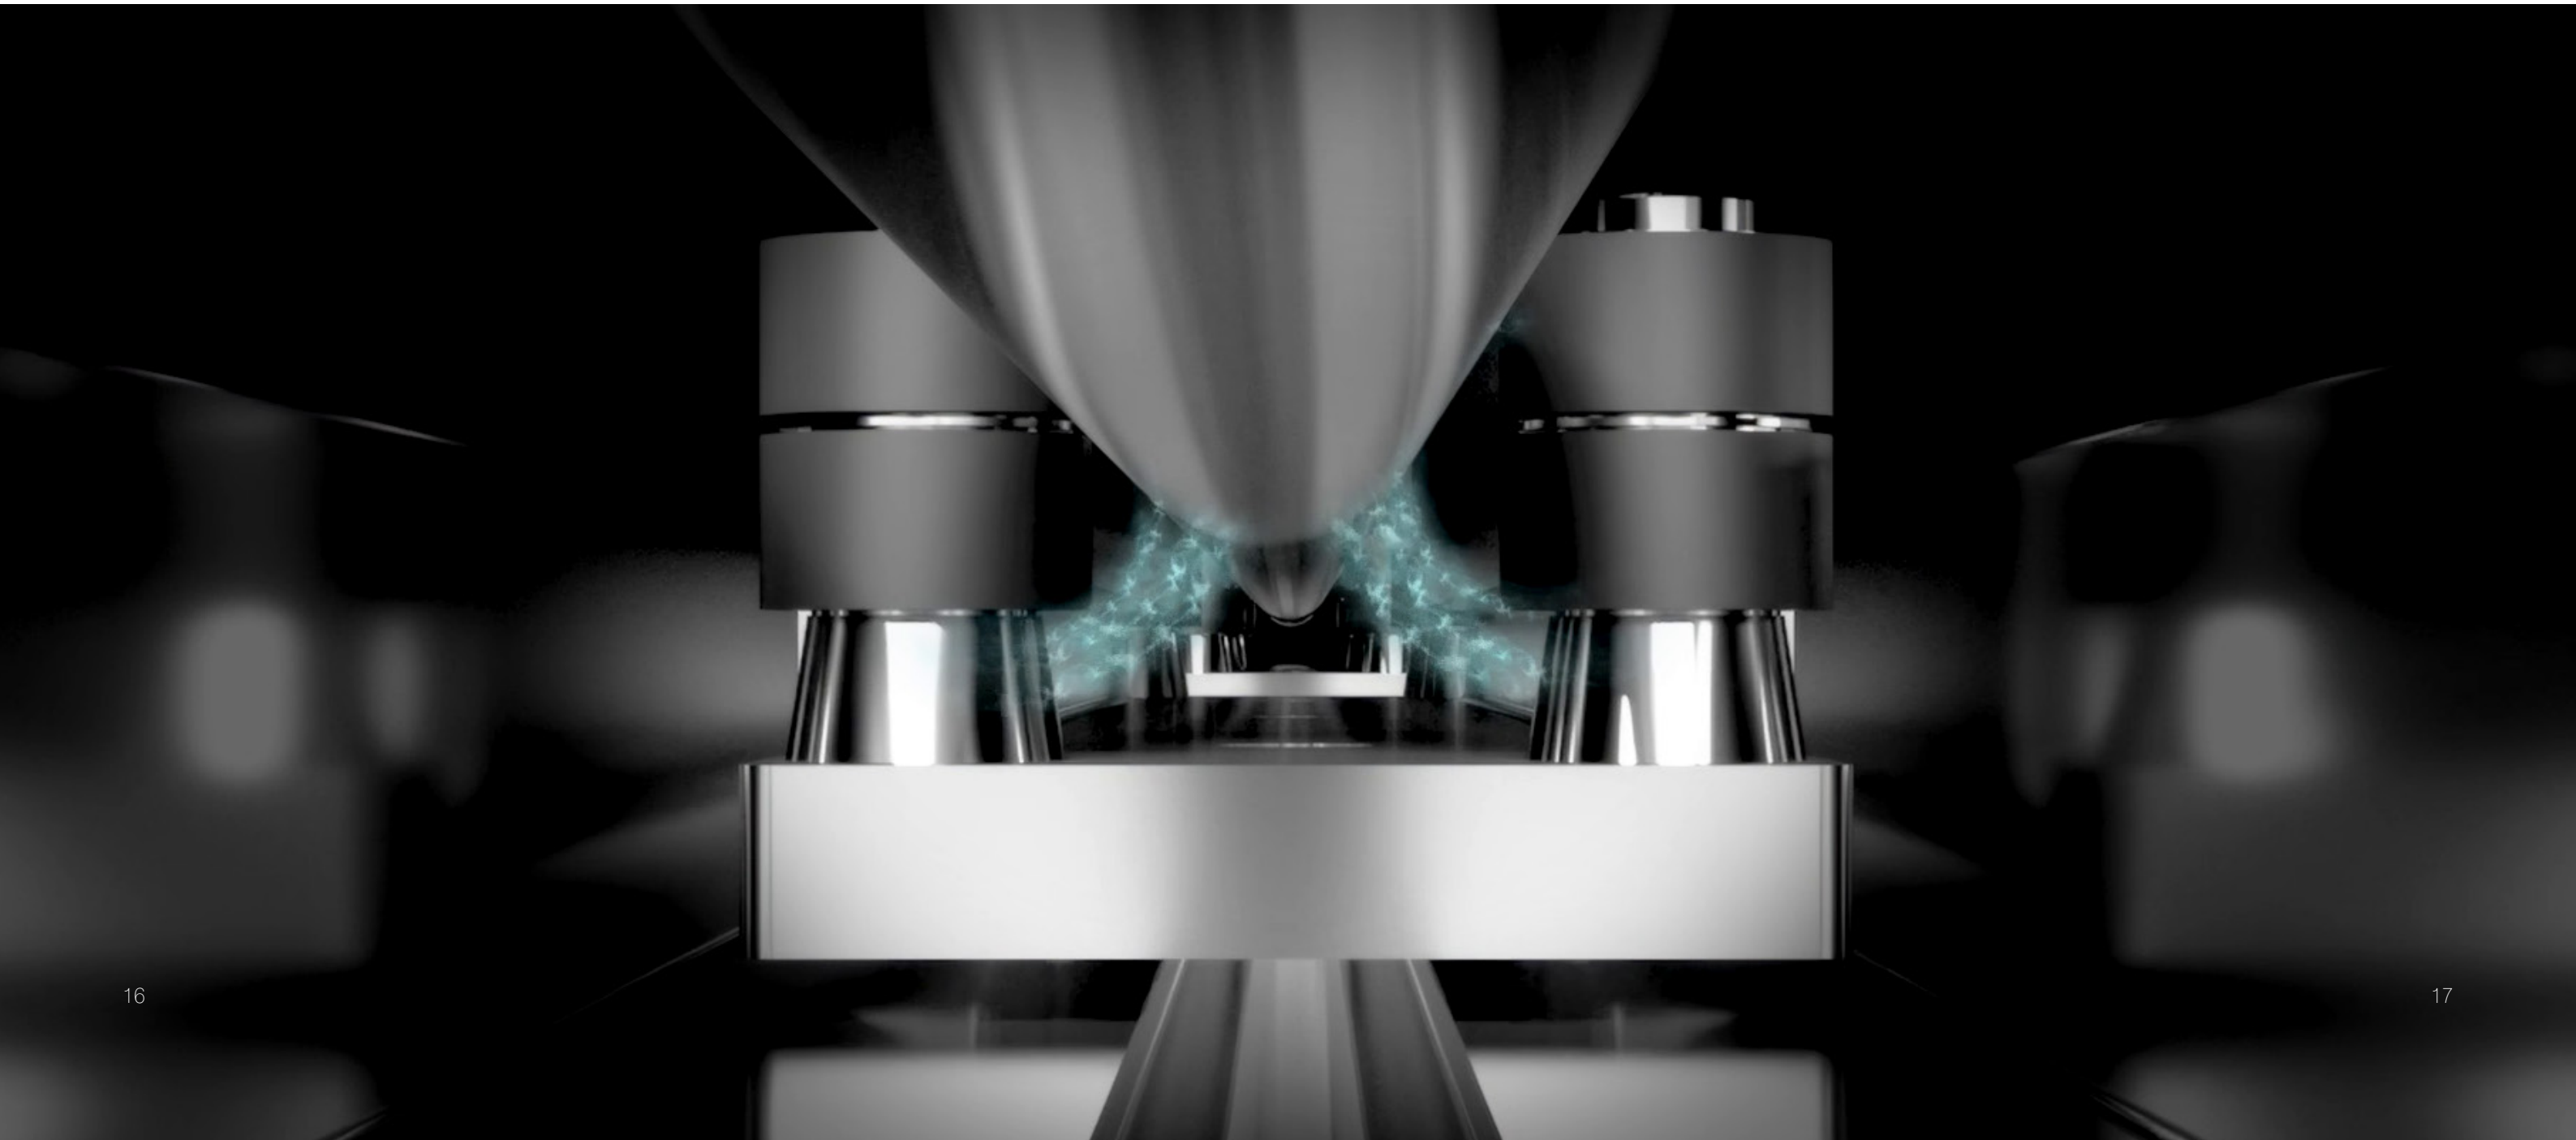

It is the details that make the difference in a Relax product. Our Research & Development team is always working to improve and perfecting them, in a constant process of innovation. Over the last few years, we have designed, tested and put into production various technical solutions that have made our shower enclosures easy to assemble, easy to clean and long-lasting.

Technology and innovation

The first shower enclosure in the world with magnetic levitation

The magnetic levitation of the Infinito collection represents an absolute revolution in the panorama of shower enclosures. This innovative technology uses magnetic energy to create a completely new and unprecedented shower experience. Thanks to an advanced levitation system, the sliding door of the cabin moves without friction, ensuring flawless opening and closing that lasts forever.

Solutions for the future

Relax, with passion and experience, has patented some functional as well as aesthetic solutions over the years. The latter are the result of the work and ingenuity of its research and development department. The desire to propose new and original solutions has materialized with 6 different patents. In 2021 we chose to print our new catalog with paper of European origin, certified and coming from a controlled and sustainable supply chain. At the same time, the H-UV printing technology used in the covers does not use environmentally harmful paints. In 2023 we introduced more resistant honeycomb cardboard packaging, completely abandoning polystyrene and other plastic materials.
